Caused by Bad Draw. As details of yesterday's terrible wreck on the electric line of the West Jersey & Seashore rallway developed during the night, the disaster became more appalling. The total number of persons instantly killed is probably sixty-six, with nearly a score of injured, several of whom, it is thought, will die. Forty-eight bodies have been brought to the surface. There were ninety-one persons on the train and twenty-five have been accounted for, which with the bodies recovered, brings the total up to seventy-three. This leaves eighteen unaccounted for and supposed to have been drowned. Possibly some of these floated through the broken windows and were carried out to sea.

The wreck occurred on a drawbridge, which spans a waterway about a mile outside of the city. The ac-cident was directly due to the draw failing to work properly. A train of three cars dashed onto the trestle at high speed before the draw was properly locked. The cars jumped the rails and the first two plunged into the water, while the third caught on an abutment and remained suspended. It was from this car that nearly all the injured escaped. The cars which went into the water were entirely submerged, and as the tide is running in rapidly the divers had hard work in getting the bodies for several hours.
